The idea is to be confident in bringing up any topic. If you do sense awkwardness, the other person will be more than grateful for your effort in keeping the conversation going so don't think too much about how you're coming across with your words. If you are having trouble networking or making new friends, these 10 principles from Dale Carnegie's 'How To Win Friends And Influence People' can help you dust off or revamp your social skills. So, we're really fascinated with body language, and we're particularly interested in other people's body language. You know, we're interested in, like, you know — (Laughter) — an awkward interaction, or a smile, or a contemptuous glance, or maybe a very awkward wink, or maybe even something like a handshake. The WAY we talk to our kids has a significant impact on their learning and ability to listen to us. We are continually modeling to our kids how to act and behave, and the way we talk to them fits right into this category.
