I have a 2003 John Deere 5520. I bought it used in 2005 with less than 800 hours and the clutch went out. I took it to the John Deere dealer in Harrisonville, Mo and the Service Manager told me that there was a deficit part and John Deere would probably stand behind it even through it was out of warranty. After much effort, I just successfully completed bleeding the fuel line of the John Deere 5205. I spent a lot of time reviewing stuff on this and thought I'd add to the body of knowledge, since for someone not knowledgeable about tractors (like me) the existing directions can be hard to follow.
